

OUR DOG BREAKS WIND!!

We once had an English Setter, her name was Ella, for sure,
she had a rather bad habit,
for which there was no total cure.

She'd lie in front of the fire, appealing to everyone's heart
until she let out these noises, so loud they made everyone start!

Our guests would try to ignore it, we'd do things so you couldn't tell, we'd cough to cover the noises and burn incense to cover the smell!

Our visitors started to dwindle, made excuses why they couldn't come;
Yet still these terrible noises would emanate from Ella's fat tum!

We tried to change her diet,
we tried meats and veggie as well;
The meats just increased the volume while the vegetables increased the smell!

By now our family ignored us, saying, "You'll have to do something soon, if you let that dog carry on so well, you may as well live on the moon!"

So down to the vets we did take her, saying, "Here's a problem, you see, if you cure this flatulent canine we'll willingly pay your large fee!"

We collected her that very evening then sat down to watch some TV;
She lay in front of the fire,
whilst we sat eating our tea.

Just then she broke all the silence,
with wind, at huge decibel;
But then, with great satisfaction
we realised, there wasn't a smell!

"She cured!" we called to each other,
"She's noisier, but that's about all."
What relief, to be rid of the smelling – shame about the hole in the wall!!
